EIA / Marketing Club Entrepreneurship Panel

Christine Gutierrez
https://www.linkedin.com/in/christinegut/
Christine Gutierrez is a UC Davis student working toward a Master in Agricultural Economics and an MBA. In 2017, Christine started a B2B company that provides services to food processing facilities in Northern California. The company has since grown to 15 employees and 25 customers with $1M in annual revenues.

Chuck Temple
https://www.linkedin.com/in/chuck-temple-76361b7/
Chuck Temple is a Davis MBA and current COO at Happy Moose Juice, a premium cold-pressed juice company in San Francisco. Chuck is a serial entrepreneur who has founded multiple companies since 2008, and is a past winner of the UC Davis Big Bang! Competition.

Dan Casas-Murray
https://www.linkedin.com/in/dancasasmurray/
After a strong 11 year career, Dan left the US Army to become “just another civilian” in Baghdad, Iraq. Within a year, Dan co-founded a wireless Internet Service Provider for a local military base. Within two years, the company was providing services to multiple Department of Defense contractors and international security firms. By the end of 2014, the company had over $3 million in revenue.

In 2012, Dan returned to Sacramento with his wife Maria. They purchased a small frozen yogurt and cupcake shop in Roseville, and grew the business to three locations after just three years. In 2016, Dan joined Hacker Lab as an equity partner, and works on things like economic feasibility studies and entrepreneur bootcamps.

Manny Singh labhan
https://www.linkedin.com/in/manbir-labhan/
Manny Singh is a former chemical engineer turned tech entrepreneur. In 2010 he started Bizweb 360, a web development and digital marketing agency. More recently, Manny started WAM360, a SaaS company that allows Wordpress owners to seamlessly transform their websites into mobile apps.